GB600: Leadership Strategies for a Changing World

Unit 3 Assignment Grading Rubric:

Demonstrate mastery of the topics. Inform and persuade your audience of your choices. While "Content" points may be earned through the individual slides, the use of research will be demonstrated through the notes. Include citations, as needed, in the notes sections. References – any references used may be placed in the notes section of the concluding slide as it is not necessary for the audience to see this list. Introduction – Be sure to introduce the reason you are proposing a team approach by identifying the long-term business goal you desire to achieve. Actions for the organization level – (see DuBrin text, Table 9-3): Identify which of the 7 actions are appropriately established and which need to be revised or developed. Actions at the leader level – (see DuBrin text, Table 9-3): Using the 12 actions that leaders can take as a model, identify three strengths that seem generally consistent among leaders in the organization and three opportunities for development. Actions at the individual level – (see DuBrin text, Figure 12-1 & Quiz 12-3): Using the Leadership Self-Assessment Quiz 12-3, determine your personal conflict resolution style and summarize what indicates for team membership and leadership. Conclude with a call to action that seeks sponsorship and support for this initiative. Analysis and critical thinking Demonstrate mastery of the topics. Inform and persuade your audience of your choices. References – any references used may be placed in the notes section of the concluding slide as it is not necessary for the audience to see this list. Actions for the organization level – (see DuBrin text, Table 9-3): Propose recommendations for policy and structure changes to better enable the successful deployment to help the team approach succeed. Actions at the leader level – (see DuBrin text, Figure 12-1 & Quiz 12-3): Propose recommendations for policy and structure changes to better enable the successful deployment of a team approach. Actions at the individual level – (see DuBrin text, Figure 12-1 &	Grading Criteria	Points Possible
Introduction — Be sure to introduce the reason you are proposing a team approach by identifying the long-term business goal you desire to achieve. Actions for the organization level — (see DuBrin text, Table 9-3): Identify which of the 7 actions are appropriately established and which need to be revised or developed. Actions at the leader level — (see DuBrin text, Table 9-3): Using the 12 actions that leaders can take as a model, identify three strengths that seem generally consistent among leaders in the organization and three opportunities for development. Actions at the individual level — (see DuBrin text, Tapice 12-1 & Quiz 12-3): Using the Leadership Self-Assessment Quiz 12-3, determine your personal conflict resolution style and summarize what indicates for team membership and leadership. Conclude with a call to action that seeks sponsorship and support for this initiative. Analysis and critical thinking Demonstrate mastery of the topics. Inform and persuade your audience of your choices. "Analysis" points will mostly be earned through the notes of each slide. Include citations, as needed, in the notes sections. References — any references used may be placed in the notes section of the concluding slide as it is not necessary for the audience to see this list. Actions for the organization level — (see DuBrin text, Table 9-3): Propose recommendations for policy and structure changes to better enable the successful deployment of a team approach. Actions at the leader level — (see DuBrin text, Table 9-3): Propose recommendations for how you will improve your ability to contribute to team goals and objectives through active participation and collaboration. Professional presentation, clarity of slides It is important that the slides be streamlined, interesting, visually appealing, and professional. The use of an appropriate template, SmartArt to graphically depict information, and use of graphics to enhance the message is important. Do not just submit a plain PowerPoint deck that is filled with w	 Inform and persuade your audience of your choices. While "Content" points may be earned through the individual slides, the use of research will be demonstrated through the notes. Include citations, as needed, in the notes sections. References – any references used may be placed in the notes section of the
Actions for the organization level — (see DuBrin text, Table 9-3): Identify which of the 7 actions are appropriately established and which need to be revised or developed. Actions at the leader level — (see DuBrin text, Table 9-3): Using the 12 actions that leaders can take as a model, identify three strengths that seem generally consistent among leaders in the organization and three opportunities for development. Actions at the individual level — (see DuBrin text, Figure 12-1 & Quiz 12-3): Using the Leadership Self-Assessment Quiz 12-3, determine your personal conflict resolution style and summarize what indicates for team membership and leadership. Conclude with a call to action that seeks sponsorship and support for this initiative. Analysis and critical thinking • Demonstrate mastery of the topics. • Inform and persuade your audience of your choices. • "Analysis" points will mostly be earned through the notes of each slide. • Include citations, as needed, in the notes section of the concluding slide as it is not necessary for the audience to see this list. Actions for the organization level — (see DuBrin text, Table 9-3): Propose recommendations for policy and structure changes to better enable the successful deployment of a team approach. Actions at the leader level — (see DuBrin text, Table 9-3): Propose recommendations for how you will improve your ability to contribute to team goals and objectives through active participation and collaboration. • It is important that the slides be streamlined, interesting, visually appealing, and professional. • The use of an appropriate template, SmartArt to graphically depict information, and use of graphics to enhance the message is important. Do not just submit a plain PowerPoint deck that is filled with words and bullet point lists. • It is important that the slides be streamlined, interesting, visually appealing, and professional. • The use of an appropriate template, SmartArt to graphically depict information and use of graphics to enhance the message i	Introduction – Be sure to introduce the reason you are proposing a team approach by	8
Actions at the leader level – (see DuBrin text, Table 9-3): Using the 12 actions that leaders can take as a model, identify three strengths that seem generally consistent among leaders in the organization and three opportunities for development. Actions at the individual level – (see DuBrin text, Figure 12-1 & Quiz 12-3): Using the Leadership Self-Assessment Quiz 12-3, determine your personal conflict resolution style and summarize what indicates for team membership and leadership. Conclude with a call to action that seeks sponsorship and support for this initiative. Analysis and critical thinking • Demonstrate mastery of the topics. • Inform and persuade your audience of your choices. • "Analysis" points will mostly be earned through the notes of each slide. • Include citations, as needed, in the notes sections. • References – any references used may be placed in the notes section of the concluding slide as it is not necessary for the audience to see this list. Actions for the organization level – (see DuBrin text, Table 9-3): Propose recommendations for policy and structure changes to better enable the successful deployment of a team approach. Actions at the leader level – (see DuBrin text, Table 9-3): Propose recommendations for how you will improve your ability to contribute to team goals and objectives through active participation and collaboration. Professional presentation, clarity of slides • It is important that the slides be streamlined, interesting, visually appealing, and professional. • The use of an appropriate template, SmartArt to graphically depict information, and use of graphics to enhance the message is important. Do not just submit a plain PowerPoint deck that is filled with words and bullet point lists. • The presentation must be interesting and visually appealing and memorable. • Slides should not be overly cluttered and should be easily viewed when presented in a large setting. Use an appropriate forn tand fort size. • Slides must be grammatically correct and free of miss	Actions for the organization level – (see DuBrin text, Table 9-3): Identify which of the	20
Actions at the individual level – (see DuBrin text, Figure 12-1 & Quiz 12-3): Using the Leadership Self-Assessment Quiz 12-3, determine your personal conflict resolution style and summarize what indicates for team membership and leadership. Conclude with a call to action that seeks sponsorship and support for this initiative. Analysis and critical thinking Demonstrate mastery of the topics. Inform and persuade your audience of your choices. Inform and persuade your audience of your choices. Include citations, as needed, in the notes sections. References – any references used may be placed in the notes section of the concluding slide as it is not necessary for the audience to see this list. Actions for the organization level – (see DuBrin text, Table 9-3): Propose recommendations for policy and structure changes to better enable the successful deployment of a team approach. Actions at the leader level – (see DuBrin text, Table 9-3): Propose recommendations for policy and structure changes to better enable the successful deployment of a team approach. Actions at the individual level – (see DuBrin text, Table 9-3): Propose recommendations for policy and structure changes to better enable the successful deployment of a team approach. Actions at the individual level – (see DuBrin text, Figure 12-1 & Quiz 12-3): Propose recommendations for how you will improve your ability to contribute to team goals and objectives through active participation and collaboration. Professional presentation, clarity of slides It is important that the slides be streamlined, interesting, visually appealing, and professional. The use of an appropriate template, SmartArt to graphically depict information, and use of graphics to enhance the message is important. Do not just submit a plain PowerPoint deck that is filled with words and bullet point lists. The presentation must be interesting and visually appealing and memorable. Slides must be grammatically correct and free of misspelled words. Include a title slide. 2 Profession	Actions at the leader level – (see DuBrin text, Table 9-3): Using the 12 actions that leaders can take as a model, identify three strengths that seem generally consistent	20
Analysis and critical thinking Demonstrate mastery of the topics. Inform and persuade your audience of your choices. "Analysis" points will mostly be earned through the notes of each slide. Include citations, as needed, in the notes sections. References — any references used may be placed in the notes section of the concluding slide as it is not necessary for the audience to see this list. Actions for the organization level — (see DuBrin text, Table 9-3): Propose recommendations for policy and structure changes to better enable the successful deployment of a team approach. Actions at the leader level — (see DuBrin text, Table 9-3): Propose recommendations for leader training and development to help the team approach succeed. Actions at the individual level — (see DuBrin text, Figure 12-1 & Quiz 12-3): Propose recommendations for how you will improve your ability to contribute to team goals and objectives through active participation and collaboration. Professional presentation, clarity of slides It is important that the slides be streamlined, interesting, visually appealing, and professional. The use of an appropriate template, SmartArt to graphically depict information, and use of graphics to enhance the message is important. Do not just submit a plain PowerPoint deck that is filled with words and bullet point lists. The presentation must be interesting and visually appealing and memorable. Slides should not be overly cluttered and should be easily viewed when presented in a large setting. Use an appropriate font and font size. Slides must be grammatically correct and free of misspelled words. Professional template used. Presentation is visually appealing: use of graphics and SmartArt streamline information in a memorable manner. Slides are not overly cluttered and could be easily viewed when presented in a large setting. Appropriate font and font size selected. Slides are grammatically correct and free of misspelled words.	Actions at the individual level – (see DuBrin text, Figure 12-1 & Quiz 12-3): Using the Leadership Self-Assessment Quiz 12-3, determine your personal conflict resolution style and summarize what indicates for team membership and leadership.	20
Demonstrate mastery of the topics. Inform and persuade your audience of your choices. "Analysis" points will mostly be earned through the notes of each slide. Include citations, as needed, in the notes sections. References – any references used may be placed in the notes section of the concluding slide as it is not necessary for the audience to see this list. Actions for the organization level – (see DuBrin text, Table 9-3): Propose recommendations for policy and structure changes to better enable the successful deployment of a team approach. Actions at the leader level – (see DuBrin text, Table 9-3): Propose recommendations for leader training and development to help the team approach succeed. Actions at the individual level – (see DuBrin text, Figure 12-1 & Quiz 12-3): Propose recommendations for how you will improve your ability to contribute to team goals and objectives through active participation and collaboration. Professional presentation, clarity of slides It is important that the slides be streamlined, interesting, visually appealing, and professional. The use of an appropriate template, SmartArt to graphically depict information, and use of graphics to enhance the message is important. Do not just submit a plain PowerPoint deck that is filled with words and bullet point lists. The presentation must be interesting and visually appealing and memorable. Slides should not be overly cluttered and should be easily viewed when presented in a large setting. Use an appropriate font and font size. Slides must be grammatically correct and free of misspelled words. Include a title slide. Professional template used. 2 Professional template used. Presentation is visually appealing: use of graphics and SmartArt streamline information in a memorable manner. Slides are not overly cluttered and could be easily viewed when presented in a large setting. Appropriate font and font size selected. Slides are grammatically correct and free of misspelled words.	Conclude with a call to action that seeks sponsorship and support for this initiative.	7
recommendations for policy and structure changes to better enable the successful deployment of a team approach. Actions at the leader level — (see DuBrin text, Table 9-3): Propose recommendations for leader training and development to help the team approach succeed. Actions at the individual level — (see DuBrin text, Figure 12-1 & Quiz 12-3): Propose recommendations for how you will improve your ability to contribute to team goals and objectives through active participation and collaboration. Professional presentation, clarity of slides It is important that the slides be streamlined, interesting, visually appealing, and professional. The use of an appropriate template, SmartArt to graphically depict information, and use of graphics to enhance the message is important. Do not just submit a plain PowerPoint deck that is filled with words and bullet point lists. The presentation must be interesting and visually appealing and memorable. Slides should not be overly cluttered and should be easily viewed when presented in a large setting. Use an appropriate font and font size. Slides must be grammatically correct and free of misspelled words. Include a title slide. 2 Professional template used. 2 Presentation is visually appealing: use of graphics and SmartArt streamline information in a memorable manner. Slides are not overly cluttered and could be easily viewed when presented in a large setting. Appropriate font and font size selected. Slides are grammatically correct and free of misspelled words.	 Demonstrate mastery of the topics. Inform and persuade your audience of your choices. "Analysis" points will mostly be earned through the notes of each slide. Include citations, as needed, in the notes sections. References – any references used may be placed in the notes section of the concluding slide as it is not necessary for the audience to see this list. 	(30%)
Actions at the leader level – (see DuBrin text, Table 9-3): Propose recommendations for leader training and development to help the team approach succeed. Actions at the individual level – (see DuBrin text, Figure 12-1 & Quiz 12-3): Propose recommendations for how you will improve your ability to contribute to team goals and objectives through active participation and collaboration. Professional presentation, clarity of slides It is important that the slides be streamlined, interesting, visually appealing, and professional. The use of an appropriate template, SmartArt to graphically depict information, and use of graphics to enhance the message is important. Do not just submit a plain PowerPoint deck that is filled with words and bullet point lists. The presentation must be interesting and visually appealing and memorable. Slides should not be overly cluttered and should be easily viewed when presented in a large setting. Use an appropriate font and font size. Slides must be grammatically correct and free of misspelled words. Include a title slide. 2 Professional template used. Presentation is visually appealing: use of graphics and SmartArt streamline information in a memorable manner. Slides are not overly cluttered and could be easily viewed when presented in a large setting. Appropriate font and font size selected. Slides are grammatically correct and free of misspelled words.	Actions for the organization level – (see DuBrin text, Table 9-3): Propose recommendations for policy and structure changes to better enable the successful deployment of a team approach.	15
Actions at the individual level – (see DuBrin text, Figure 12-1 & Quiz 12-3): Propose recommendations for how you will improve your ability to contribute to team goals and objectives through active participation and collaboration. Professional presentation, clarity of slides It is important that the slides be streamlined, interesting, visually appealing, and professional. The use of an appropriate template, SmartArt to graphically depict information, and use of graphics to enhance the message is important. Do not just submit a plain PowerPoint deck that is filled with words and bullet point lists. The presentation must be interesting and visually appealing and memorable. Slides should not be overly cluttered and should be easily viewed when presented in a large setting. Use an appropriate font and font size. Slides must be grammatically correct and free of misspelled words. Professional template used. Presentation is visually appealing: use of graphics and SmartArt streamline information in a memorable manner. Slides are not overly cluttered and could be easily viewed when presented in a large setting. Appropriate font and font size selected. Slides are grammatically correct and free of misspelled words. 2	Actions at the leader level – (see DuBrin text, Table 9-3): Propose recommendations	15
Professional presentation, clarity of slides It is important that the slides be streamlined, interesting, visually appealing, and professional. The use of an appropriate template, SmartArt to graphically depict information, and use of graphics to enhance the message is important. Do not just submit a plain PowerPoint deck that is filled with words and bullet point lists. The presentation must be interesting and visually appealing and memorable. Slides should not be overly cluttered and should be easily viewed when presented in a large setting. Use an appropriate font and font size. Slides must be grammatically correct and free of misspelled words. Include a title slide. Presentation is visually appealing: use of graphics and SmartArt streamline information in a memorable manner. Slides are not overly cluttered and could be easily viewed when presented in a large setting. Appropriate font and font size selected. Slides are grammatically correct and free of misspelled words. 2 2 2 2 2 2 2 2 2 2 2 2 2	Actions at the individual level – (see DuBrin text, Figure 12-1 & Quiz 12-3): Propose recommendations for how you will improve your ability to contribute to team goals and	15
Include a title slide. Professional template used. Presentation is visually appealing: use of graphics and SmartArt streamline information in a memorable manner. Slides are not overly cluttered and could be easily viewed when presented in a large setting. Appropriate font and font size selected. Slides are grammatically correct and free of misspelled words. 2 2 10 10 10 2 10 2 10 2 2	 Professional presentation, clarity of slides It is important that the slides be streamlined, interesting, visually appealing, and professional. The use of an appropriate template, SmartArt to graphically depict information, and use of graphics to enhance the message is important. Do not just submit a plain PowerPoint deck that is filled with words and bullet point lists. The presentation must be interesting and visually appealing and memorable. Slides should not be overly cluttered and should be easily viewed when presented in a large setting. Use an appropriate font and font size.
Professional template used. Presentation is visually appealing: use of graphics and SmartArt streamline information in a memorable manner. Slides are not overly cluttered and could be easily viewed when presented in a large setting. Appropriate font and font size selected. Slides are grammatically correct and free of misspelled words. 2		2
Presentation is visually appealing: use of graphics and SmartArt streamline information in a memorable manner. Slides are not overly cluttered and could be easily viewed when presented in a large setting. Appropriate font and font size selected. Slides are grammatically correct and free of misspelled words. 2 information in a memorable manner. Slides are not overly cluttered and could be easily viewed when presented in a large setting. Appropriate font and font size selected. Slides are grammatically correct and free of misspelled words.
setting. Appropriate font and font size selected. Slides are grammatically correct and free of misspelled words. 2	information in a memorable manner.
	setting. Appropriate font and font size selected.
	Slides are grammatically correct and free of misspelled words. Presentation is appropriate length (10-12 slides)	2 2

Grading Criteria	Points Possible
Provide appropriate references.	2
Total	150 points