

MN507 Unit 3 Assignment Presentation Transcript

As an advanced practice nurse, you will be looked at as a change agent. Part of change is to know your legislators and contact them regarding health care issues.

Nurses are the largest group of health care workers. If you work as a group you can make change.

Sometimes it seems that one person could never change anything. That is not true. We have had many great role models in nursing who have made significant changes (picture of Florence Nightingale).

Change starts with small steps. Writing a letter to elected officials is a small step that is a beginning. Many times they are not aware of the need for the change. They do not know health care like you do (picture of a legislator with the thought bubble, "Why didn't I think of that.").

Who better than you to bring about change?
